HOUSE & HOME / FALL 2017

(FALL 2017)

HARMONY IN THE HOME

A sweet exhale. That's what coming home should feel like. As fall comes into focus and winter looms not far behind, our home becomes our haven away from the seasons—a place to power down on your own or draw people together as the nights close in.

Here at Anthropologie, we're getting ready; we're refreshing our dinnerware and polishing our flatware. We're plumping our cushions and rearranging our living spaces. We're updating our guest bedrooms and finessing our hallways.

A new season beckons, and we're here to help you prepare for it. From global inspirations and emerging artists to icons of design updated and reimagined, we'll guide you through our best new looks for the home. We hope you enjoy the issue.

A BEAUTIFUL HOME IS BALANCED

This fall, we're seeking balance: texture with polish, cool with warmth and clean with comfortable. We're combining sculptural statement pieces honed from lucite and lacquer with organic forms and inviting, rose-tinted finishes. We're luxuriating in curves—from serpentine sofas to plush swivel chairs and shapely tables—and setting them off with light-catching accents of brass. The effect, we hope, is elegant yet effortless.

THE SERPENTINE SOFA

Many mid-century designs in the 1950s and '60s were created with suburban homes in mind, but the serpentine sofa was all about city sophistication. Turning away from the era's clean, simple lines, the serpentine's voluptuous curves felt indulgent and daring. No surprise then that everyone from Marilyn Monroe to Andy Warhol were fans.

ARTISTIC PAIRING

It's our first nod to balance: matching simple, modern furniture shapes in bold colors with softer and more painterly pieces—be it on walls in the form of abstract brush strokes or on floors with impressionist-inspired rugs. Here, cranberry pink velvet finds its match in lucite and brass legs. Marble, lacquer and mirror add to the final composition.

PATTERN PLAY

Vibrant bedding can really pull a minimal room together, adding central focus and a starting point for accents elsewhere. Offset with a subtler sort of pattern in the form of geometric woodwork—shown here on our Geo-Marquetry collection—which features tactile brass pulls and elegant legs.

THE SWIVEL CHAIR

The perfect marriage of form and function, the swivel chair was thought to have been invented by Thomas Jefferson and used while writing the Declaration of Independence in 1776. It's making a similarly bold statement for fall in jade green velvet—but you'll be forgiven for just using yours to read a good book.

STATEMENT WALLPAPER

We love abstract painterly forms like this whirling marble. The trick? Use it as your starting point, pulling in similar shades and patterns elsewhere in the space. When in doubt, just cover one wall.

(THE CONCEPT)

ROSY REFLECTIONS

This fall, we're focusing on cozy hues such as apricot and rose. Carefully positioned, a spherical mirror can help enlarge a room and create visual interest. Don't limit yourself with eye-lines: instead think of them as pieces of art and try placing them up high or above your bed.

LIBERTY FOR ANTHROPOLOGIE

TEAMING UP WITH LONDON'S
MOST ICONIC DESIGN HOUSE

An heirloom-worthy collaboration blooms this season with iconic British department store Liberty of London and Anthropologie. Classic floral patterns find a modern update in unabashedly strong palettes and surfaces. Lush prints bloom on Deco-inspired armchairs, delicate loveseats and clean-lined tables. At once fresh and timeless, it's the perfect bouquet of styles for the home.

(STYLE TIP)

LIVING WITH LIBERTY

When decorating with prints, it's all about creating balance. Be sure to pair florals with solids in a similar or complementary color. Let a statement sofa or chair be your focal point and keep other elements—art, drapery, rugs—more muted.

REIMAGINED CLASSICS

WHAT'S OLD IS WILDLY NEW AGAIN

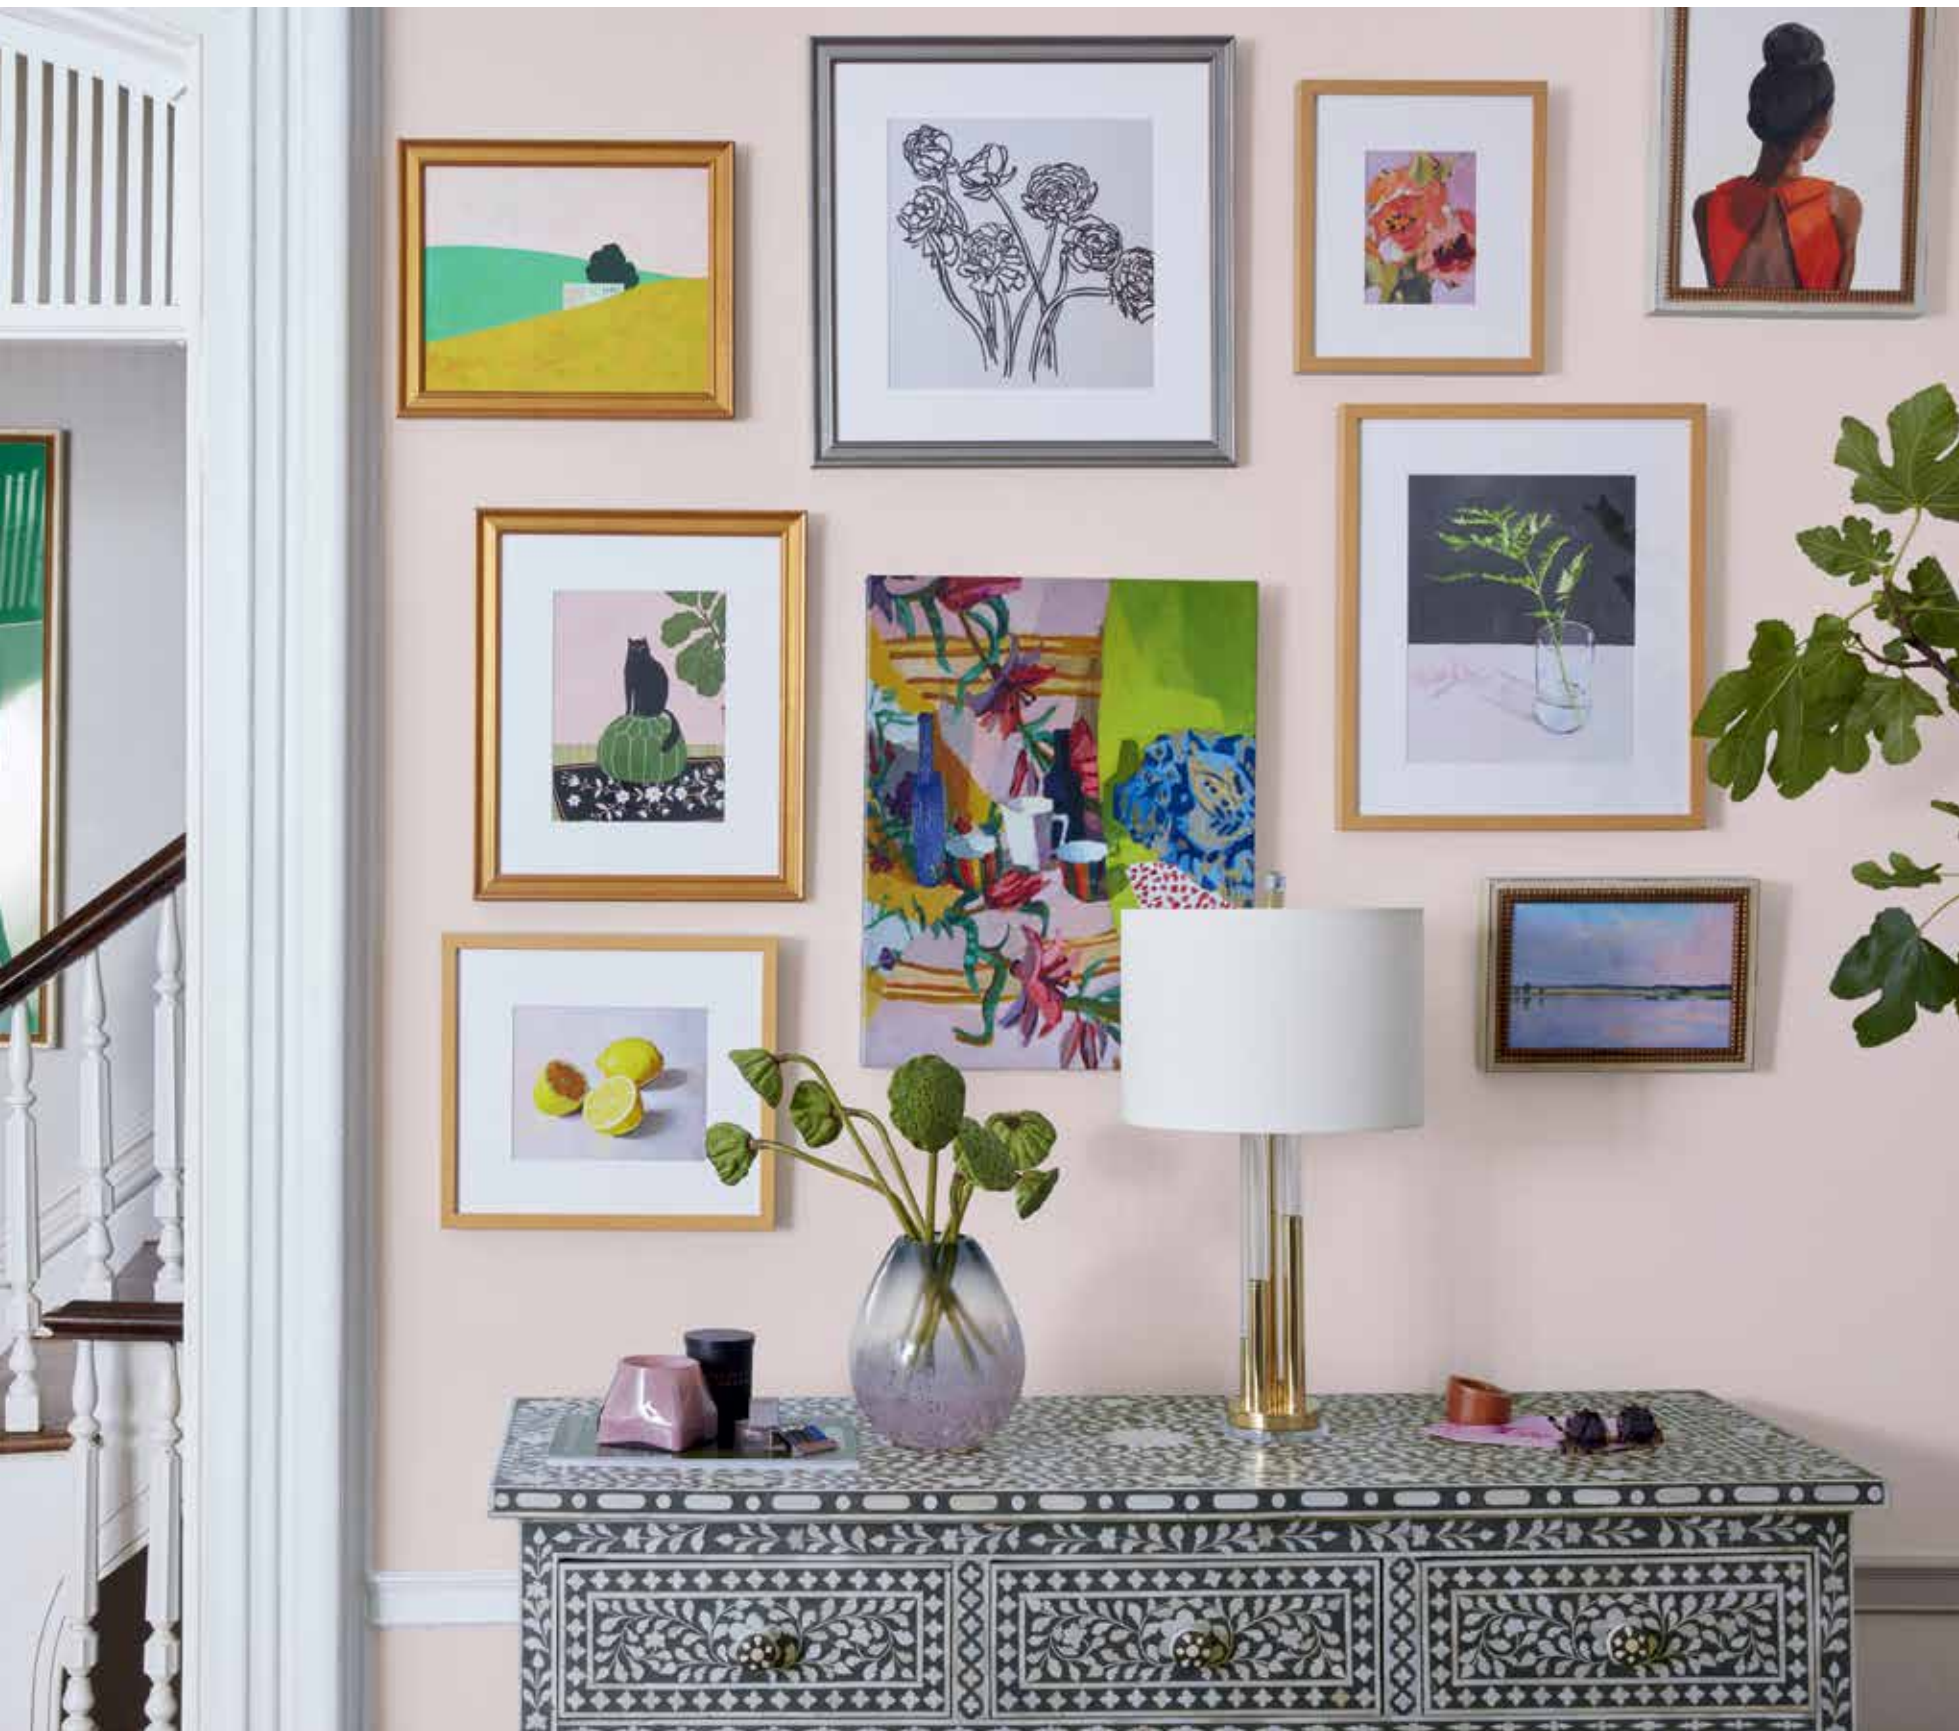

Traditional shapes are back and better than ever thanks to bold new takes. Think Chesterfield sofas in rich hues like chartreuse and cyan, exotic embroidery on classic armchairs and Nouveau antique rugs in modern tones like lavender, cinnamon and blush. Graphic laser cuts, geometric inlays and solid stripes transform tables into eye-catching centerpieces.

PICTURE-PERFECT UPHOLSTERY

Let your furniture do some of the talking this fall. Whether it's armchairs embroidered with fairytale-style illustrations, a pair of patterned pooches with a nod to Chinoiserie, a bold tiger depicted in Indian folk art style, or vines creeping around the arms and backs of a chair as if sitting in some hidden temple, these conversation pieces elevate the standard armchair to something different.

(STYLE TIP)

COOL & COLLECTED

A good gallery wall should feel like a visual journal. The best ones come from collecting pieces on your travels, or selecting art that speaks to you, your favorite imagery and colors. It can grow and evolve with your style as you add and subtract pieces over time.

THE NEW CHESTERFIELD

When you sink into the classic comfort of a Chesterfield sofa, you're sitting on more than two centuries of history. Legend has it that trendsetter and man-about-town, the 4th Earl of Chesterfield, commissioned a sofa in the 1700s that would encourage him to sit bolt-upright like a gentleman while preventing wrinkles in his clothes. The button-back Chesterfield was born.

Officers in the British Royal Army carried the Chesterfield style throughout the empire to India, East Africa and America, which is how it arrived on our shores. It's getting a 21st century makeover this fall with softer curves, modern legs and deep jewel-toned hues. We think the Earl would be proud.

(STEP) 2 / SELECT A FABRIC

Your furniture should fit your lifestyle, whether you need a cool, breathable material for your desert bungalow or a durable leather that's also resistant to finger paint. We want to make things easier for you in your day-to-day, so we've created fabrics to meet all needs. Think leathers that only get better with age, linens from one of Belgium's oldest producers and performance velvets, which are a breeze to clean.

ADD COLOR & DETAILS

Colors are memories: the azure blue of your favorite seaside escape. The emerald green of your grandmother's engagement ring. The peachy pink of your high school prom dress. Make those special colors a part of your everyday life by opting for one of 152 handcrafted hues. Personalization doesn't stop there; add additional touches to suit your room, from interchangeable leg finishes to alternative studs and castors. The options are endless.

KENDRA SMOOT

STYLIST

You know those dreamy magazine spreads where a why-didn't-I-think-of-that bowl of artichokes sits atop an artfully disheveled dining table with sun streaming in through billowing curtains? A lot of work goes into getting that perfect shot. Work done by experts like Kendra Smoot.

The stylist brings the same keen eye to the dreamy California bungalow she shares with photographer husband Seth and her children, Stella (10), Imogen (5) and Truman (2). How does she balance creating a stunning home with the everyday chaos of a growing family? "For us, I don't feel like we have to sacrifice or suffer to have a beautiful home. The secret is in picking pieces that are both durable and beautiful."

"BEAUTY DOESN'T MEAN
FRAGILE OR UNTOUCHABLE
TO ME. FUNCTIONALITY AND STYLE SHOULD ALWAYS GO HAND-IN-HAND."

Since moving to California from New York, Smoot has been drawn to a brighter, sun-drenched look with bleached woods, organic textures and lighter shades—not always a friendly color for kids. But Smoot believes in embracing the chaos. "Instead of fighting it, I love picking resistant fabrics or pieces that are going to wear and patina over time."

So, while muddy sneakers or smushed blueberries might find their way onto the furniture, the performance fabrics can take it, and the leathers are all the better for it. "I want everyone that comes into our house to feel comfortable. I want life to happen here, drinks to get spilled, paintings to get painted. It may be crazy, but you'll feel at home."

BECKI OWENS

INTERIOR DESIGNER

“GOING CUSTOM MEANS EMBRACING WHAT YOU LOVE, MAKING SOMETHING THAT’S UNIQUELY YOU.”

Becki Owens spent her childhood working in her dad’s paint store, mixing the shades just so, and helping customers pick the perfect tone. She also helped out with the other family business—remodeling homes.

“I lived in five different homes, all in the same neighborhood growing up. They’d buy a house, tear it all down and remodel it, then start all over again,” Owens says.

As a result, the now-interior designer knows a thing or two about getting a look that’s perfect for your space, your location and your lifestyle. A lot of times, that means going custom.

“It’s amazing to be able to create something from scratch that perfectly fits your vision,” Owens says.

“EVERY DESIGN RULE WAS MADE TO BE BROKEN EXCEPT ONE: USE WHAT YOU LOVE.”

When creating custom pieces, Owens always considers the purpose of the piece and the function of the room. Is it a space meant for entertaining? Or does it need to feel peaceful and serene?

Then she considers color. Is it something you can see yourself living with for a long time? Then go bold and put the color onto a large piece like a sofa. Not sure it's your forever hue? Use it on an accent chair.

As important as color is material. Looking for a more relaxed, inviting feel? Consider linen. Want to elevate your space? Go velvet. Have kids? Entertain a lot? Opt for performance fabrics or durable materials like leather.

But at the end of the day, just trust your gut. “Going custom means embracing what you love, making something that’s uniquely you,” Owens says.

INTRODUCING A WARMER TAKE ON THE TYPICALLY COOL AESTHETIC

This fall, we're adding softer lines and subtle injections of color to the cool-girl of design. Think gleaming copper tables beside pared-back sofas, low-slung couches in blushing pink and ceiling lights aglow with iridescence. Confident and cool, sculptural and feminine—this is the new minimal. Isn't she lovely?

HOW TO GO MINIMAL

With fewer objects in a room, your eye has more time to study each piece. This means your focus should be on quality materials and the finer details: the subtle tones of an armchair, the buttery leather toggle on an otherwise simple couch, geometric candlesticks on an architectural table. Choose carefully and maximize the impact.

CASUAL ABSTRACTIONS

Use one or two colors from the same palette to break up a minimal space—and stick to them. We like how pale blues and aquas complement rose metallics and neutrals. Layering up rugs helps keep things cozy.

THE MINIMALIST

WHAT WE'RE COVETING THIS FALL

Mixed materials, new metallics and a softer palette—that's what's on our wishlist this season. Bring the look together in a warm way with please-touch textures, soothing pastels and a harmony of shapes.

(THE FOCUS)

INSIDE-OUT SOFAS

Find beauty in what's beneath this season. Our Yas sofa and armchair feature a visible bleached oak frame, which cradles the softly sloping upholstery. We love the mix of organic wood and cloud-like cushions.

COMING UP ROSES

Mirrored surfaces can help make a room feel more expansive. While traditional mirrors can feel cold, modern tints of rose gold cast a softer glow that's perfect for fall.

HOME—IT'S YOUR RETREAT

Some homes have a sense of living right at the heart of them. They invite people in; from a put-your-feet-up coffee table to a conversation-starting set of dinnerware and a peruse-me bookcase. They help people relax and feel connected—whether it's a soft Moroccan rug beneath your bare feet or a linen sofa everyone wants to hang out on. So how do you create one? Invite the outside in via earthy neutrals like sage, flax and clay. Find harmony in a balance of casual textures and tactile details.

VASTU SHASTRA

Decorating the home means creating a beautiful setting for your day-to-day. We're feeling inspired by the ancient Hindu principles of vastu shastra, which aim to align the home with nature in order to improve quality of life. Think of your house as a living body, using design to keep it healthy and harmonious via color, placement of furniture and thoughtful use of space.

ARTIST COLLABORATIONS

BRINGING ART INTO THE EVERYDAY

Serveware imprinted with the fauna and flora of the Australian outback. Textiles abloom with tropical hues. Everyday accessories inspired by ancient talisman. Every piece has a story. We delve behind our favorite fall objects to meet the creators that made them.

“NATURE IS A HUGE PART OF MY WORK, SO I’M LUCKY TO BE FROM A LITTLE CORNER OF THE WORLD THAT HAS SUCH A DIVERSE AND WEIRD SELECTION OF IT.”

FROM THE TROPICS OF AUSTRALIA TO YOUR HOME

Melbourne-based textile and pattern designer Cassie Byrnes spent her early years “getting up to all types of mischief outdoors” and making the most of her location—a charming and nature-filled spot next to a sugarcane farm in a tropical Australian town. Her childhood taught her the joys of a creative living space. This fall, the vibrant patterns of her work appear on textiles and ceramics—and invite you on a sundrenched, technicolor walk through a botanical wonderland. “That’s what I love about designing for the home; you can go bold and loud,” Byrnes says.

"I SUPPOSE MY WORK HAS A CERTAIN BRITISHNESS ABOUT IT. I THINK THE BRITISH ARE TRADITIONALLY QUITE ECCENTRIC."

QUINTESSENTIAL ENGLISH QUIRK FOR YOUR LIVING SPACE

Illustrative artist and designer Luke Edward Hall has a home that feels like a spirited travel journal; the curiosities, textiles and antiques all jostled about like souvenirs of adventures lived. His work is similarly whimsical—whether it's a Jean Cocteau-inspired platter or a petal-laden pitcher, he imbues a sense of romantic nostalgia into each design. He describes his approach as "fun and irreverent," a manifesto which has been brought to life with this new line of dinnerware.

DAWN

CERAMICIST

BRINGING COLOR TO CRAFTSMANSHIP

Much of the foundation for ceramicist Dawn Vachon's craft was laid, quite literally, by her father—he hand-built their log cabin home in British Columbia. “Attention to detail and the ability to be critical of your own work—my father passed all that on to me,” Vachon says.

Her simple yet vibrant work marries that long tradition of craftsmanship with a playful, modern spirit. Perhaps that's due, in part, to the fact that it's created in her garage studio where she is usually found wedged between a pizza oven and her bicycles. “Individuality, usefulness and fun—that's what I hope my work brings to the table.”

CERAMICIST

REFLECTING NATURE'S GLORY
IN PORCELAIN AND GLAZE

The Australian outback isn't an easy place to live. Just ask artist Melanie McEvoy about the deadly snakes that often visited her old studio while she worked. But it's an incredibly inspiring place. "We have a big blue sky and red dirt, open space that goes on forever, floods and fires and droughts. We have kangaroos and parrots and beautiful fauna," she says. McEvoy depicts that landscape in her decorative yet modern work. "I would like to think that people are connecting with me when they are using my creations and that it gives them joy."

HECHIZO

LEATHER DESIGNER

EVERYDAY ACCESSORIES WITH EXTRAORDINARY CRAFTSMANSHIP

In Spanish, Hechizo roughly means "spell or magical charm." It's a fitting name for Brooklyn designer Hali Emminger's line of accessories. Everyday pieces like keychains and clutches feature handmade ceramic beads and tassels, which have been used in cultures throughout the world to ward off evil spirits. "Objects and places with history continue to attract me the most," Emminger says. She strives to put that personality into each piece she makes. "I appreciate realness. I think it's why I'm drawn to handmade and pre-owned things; pieces with the edges worn down and flaws on display have an approachability I find comforting."

PAIGE GEMMEL

ILLUSTRATOR

CHINOISERIE CHIC BY WAY OF PREPPY PALM BEACH

The natural patterns found on animals. Indian illustrations. Moroccan motifs. Asian scenery. Florida-based artist Paige Gemmel's inspirations are wide-ranging, but one thing unites them: "I always love to put a new spin on an old idea." For fall, this means noble Rajasthani elephants prancing across tasseled pillows, Imperial foo dogs smirking on richly hued kilims, and classically shaped armchairs laden with intricate embroidery. Gemmel works in a fairytale-like studio, housed in a tiny cottage beneath towering redwoods. "I really hope that my designs spark thought and conversation," she says.

NATURAL ACCENTS

FINDING HARMONY
IN NATURE'S OWN PALETTE

"Nature's first green is gold," wrote the American poet Robert Frost in his 1923 ode to the fleeting natural world. We've taken the idea to heart this season and created a collection of furniture and decorative touches that celebrates all things honest and at one with the outdoors. From textural wall hangings and macramé to golden mobiles that dance in the sunshine, we're inviting mother nature inside.

HARMONY IN THE HOME

Embrace the open space. Start with touchable textures like heavy pile rugs, nubby linens and a blanket you want to curl up in. Balance all that softness with metallics and embrace some negative space. Keeping your color palette light allows your eye to travel through the room, giving it places to rest.

THE WORLD AT YOUR DOORSTEP

A home that reads like a travelogue—that's what we're coveting for fall. So, bring in florals from Turkey, Suzani textiles from Uzbekistan, Jacobean embroidery from England. Let print run riot from wallpaper to pillows, then find balance via rich colors, polished woods and pops of brilliant white. Layered, worldly, with a dash of romance—just like a good travel tale.

MODERN IKAT

Can't quite put your finger on the sofa pattern? Is it from Japan or Indonesia? Peru or Yemen? The answer? All of them: the style grew and evolved across different cultures around the world. Named after the Malaysian word for "to tie," ikat is an extremely elevated version of tie dye, with a complicated production that makes it highly coveted. We're using it with confidence—in bold new shapes and hues.

HOW TO MIX PATTERNS

Embrace a more-is-more aesthetic by inviting lots of patterns into a single space. The trick, as ever, is balance; pick designs of different scales—think small florals with large polka dots—in similar color families. Ground the look with natural textures, jewel-toned solids and a nice dose of Greek-inspired bright, white walls.

IRIDESCENCE

Metals age like wine, growing more complex over time as water, wind and other elements join forces to change them. Showcasing the beauty of patina, these oxidized metal pieces walk the line between industrial edge and natural beauty.

BOHO BLUES

While we're usually drawn to warmer tones when the temperature dips, this fall we're embracing blue hues. Aside from neutrals, blue is one of the easiest colors to incorporate into the home, thanks to its innate place in nature. From inky indigo to the palest chambray, whether it's on our walls or scattered on sofas—let a little blue imbue.
